NOTES IN SEASON.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready the "Manual of the Daughters of the Faith," a society for social reform, founded by the author, Miss Eliza O'Brien Lummis. The principal object of the society is to seek the co-operation of non-Catholic women in checking divorce.

DODD, MEAD & Co. announce a new book by Melvin L. Severy, the author of "The Darrow Enigma," entitled "The Mystery of June 13th," which, the publishers claim, "Sherlock Holmes, at his best, would find extremely difficult, if not almost impossible, to unravel."

A. S. BARNES & Co. have in preparation the first complete novel to come from the pen of Charles Battell Loomis, to be entitled "Minerva's Manœuvres." They have also in preparation a new story by Arthur Henry, author of "The House in the Woods" and "An Island Cabin," which will complete the trilogy of this quaint philosopher by describing the simple life in town.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. publish this week "Roses: How to Grow Them;" the first book in the new Garden Library, "Our Native Orchids," by William Hamilton Gibson; also, part three of the "Dog Book," by James Watson. They will bring out in the fall a holiday edition of Kipling's "They," with illustrations by F. H. Townsend; also, an edition of Irving's "Rip Van Winkle," with illustrations, in color, by Arthur Rackham.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish shortly George Gissing's last complete novel, "Will Warburton," the manuscript of which was found among his papers at the time of his death. It is in the fashion of his earlier work, and describes the career of a young man who is suddenly thrown on his own resources and obliged to earn his living. The plot is in many ways unique and is in the field in which the author became known. Its scenes pass in metropolitan and rural England.

GINN & Co. have just published a volume entitled "President Roosevelt's Railroad Policy." The book is not, as its title might at first be taken to indicate, an authoritative exposition by the President of his own ideas on the subject, but is the report of a discussion before the Economic Club, of Boston. The book includes the speeches delivered by the Hon. Charles A. Prouty, of the Interstate Commerce Commission; President Willcox, of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company; Judge Grosscup, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and Professor Frank Parsons, and gives their views of President Roosevelt's railroad policy.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have ready two favorite stories by Mrs. Annie Fellows Johnston, entitled "The Three Weavers" and "In the Desert of Waiting." Originally included in their "Little Colonel" stories, they have been in such constant demand that the publishers have yielded to requests and prepared them for separate publication. "The Three Weavers" is a fairy tale, while "In the Desert of Waiting" is a bit of pure fancy. Each is prettily illustrated and attractively bound. Professor Roberts, who, by the bye, is at present at work on his first long animal story, to be called "The Romance of Red Fox," has revised and lengthened two of the stories which appeared in "The Watchers of the Trails," and they are now published separately under the titles, "The Little People of the Sycamore," and "The Return to the Trails," both being illustrated by Charles Livingston Bull.

They look for her when nature is in her fiercest moods. The love awakened in both for the first time leads to murder. The "white squaw" plays the part of fickle woman; the man's brain becomes deranged; he follows her through blindest storms and in the end his imagination leaves him to his gruesome fate.

As the author points out in his preface, his purpose "has not been primarily to write the history of lynching, but to determine from the history the causes for the prevalence of the practice, to determine what the social conditions are under which lynch-law operates, and to test the validity of the arguments which have been advanced in justification of lynching." 'Polo, Past and Present' covers very much ground not occupied by existing books on the game, and is written from a somewhat different point of view. In the chapter on ancient polo, I have gone back to the authorities as far as they were known to me, and have made an endeavor to recover from the past the rules and methods of the game. The commentaries on the rules of polo of England, America, India, and New South Wales will, it is hoped, show that these rules are based on common principles, and in what way they vary to meet the necessities of the game in different countries."—Author's Preface.

The story of the life of Louis XVII., the Lost Little King of France, generally supposed to have died in 1795 from neglect and ill-treatment while imprisoned in the Temple prison in Paris. Mr. Lawson, however, believes, like many others, that the boy king was secretly rescued from prison and brought to America, and that he can be identified as the Rev. Eleazar Williams, missionary to the Indians. His romantic history is recounted with numerous quotations from contemporaneous and later records, throwing light on this historical mystery.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 24, 1905.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"THE BOOKBUYERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION."

It looks as though the storm-centre of "book-lover" organizations had moved to Washington and the mantle of the original promoter had fallen upon other shoulders. We give elsewhere the "documents in the case" of a proposed organization of the so-called "protective association," which, so far as we have learned, consists at present of the signer of the circular letter sent to librarians and others, who subscribes himself "secretary pro tem.," and whose business office seems to be at Lock Box 243, Washington, D. C. The capital city has in recent years been made the home of several questionable schemes, notorious among which has been the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association, which proved to be a subscription book scheme in disguise, which enlisted the co-operation of General Miles and used the names of well-known men in several of the States.

We are not prepared to say that the society now proposed is of that order; in fact, it assumes to oppose especially certain methods of selling subscription books on which we commented somewhat freely some weeks ago in an editorial entitled "Questionable Means of Selling Books." But the enterprise, from whatever point of view, seems as questionable as the English of the circular. The invitation to become a charter member and for the modest sum of ten dollars have the benefits of the organization for life, sounds alluring, but possibly there is little else than sound behind it. The mental picture of a subscription book purchaser holding the wily subscription book agent at bay while he posts himself from the publications of the society or writes a letter to the secretary appeals rather to a sense of humor than to business judgment.

There are methods of selling books which deserve animadversion and exposure in the interests of booksellers, bookbuyers and all concerned, but it does not appear that the meeting to which vague allusion is made in the circular, without such insignificant details as names, has hit upon quite the best method of remedying the evils, and until further evidence to show the soundness of this proposition and association is advanced it will scarcely be worth while to advise bookbuyers to step into the parlor of the "protective association."

THIS is the "last call" for the chance to secure for $6 volume I of "The American Catalog, 1900-1905," containing a short record under author, title, subject and series of books published in the United States during the period covered. It is the only publication in the market in which the books published within that period can be found in one alphabet, and no one whose work is looking up titles need be told the time-saving of this one fact and the wear and tear of nerve force that it saves day by day. Another feature of great interest to many is the exact date of issue given in the catalogue. It not only gives the year, but the month and the day on which the book was recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Every bookseller and librarian should take time this week to order this practical tool for his daily labors. On the first day of July the price will be advanced to $7.50, at which figure, also, it will remain a very reasonable work of reference.

The second volume of the American Catalog is also now in active preparation and there is every prospect of having it out within the year. This will be specially useful to librarians and second-hand book dealers, as it gives full titles of all publications and terse descriptive notes of every book that was received by the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for record. If ordered within the week the two volumes can be secured at $10, if not they will cost $12.

THE BOOKBUYERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

THE following letter has been sent from Washington broadcast to librarians and others:

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5, 1905.

DEAR SIR: We wish to ask your views on a proposed plan for organizing the bookbuyers of America into a national association for our mutual benefit and protection. In view of the very unsatisfactory conditions that have arisen in recent years in the publication and sale of subscription books, a meeting of a number of interested persons recently was held for the purpose of taking steps toward a systematic consideration of the subject. As a result of this meeting, it was decided to organize a society to be known as the Bookbuyers' Protective Association, and temporary officers were appointed to begin immediate action towards a permanent organization.

The circular enclosed with this letter sets forth briefly the plans, as discussed, and which, of course, are subject to such modifications as will meet, as nearly as possible, the views of the different individuals who will form the association. We wish to hear promptly from all bookbuyers and earnestly solicit a reply from yourself, among the number. It is very essential to have the individual views of book lovers from the different sections of the country, and their ideas as to plans of procedure, based upon their individual experience, to enable the permanent secretary to proceed intelligently, without delay, when sufficient money has been pledged and a permanent organization has been effected.

We must also depend upon some of our more prominent librarians and other bookbuyers of experience for our various committees.

To begin the immediate work of this association, instead of soliciting further contributions, life memberships without further dues will be issued to charter members for the sum of $10. After the permanent organization is effected the further issuing of life memberships will be suspended and the association will be sustained by regular memberships with initiation charge and yearly fees.

Will you kindly signify your co-operation with this plan by signing and returning the blank enclosed, at the same time furnishing us with your ideas and observations, which are especially needed just now.

Awaiting the favor of your reply, we are

Yours very sincerely,

E. GAYLORD WILCOX,

Secretary pro tem.,

Lock Box 243, Washington, D. C.

The following is the printed circular alluded to:

BOOK-BUYERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

A NATIONAL ORGANIZATION FOR THE MUTUAL
BENEFIT OF LIBRARIANS AND INDIVIDUAL
BUYERS OF BOOK PUBLICATIONS.

Believing the booklovers of America will hail with delight the advent of a society for the protection of its members against unreliable book publications or compilations, and against unscrupulous methods of selling books through agents and other means,

It is proposed to organize and incorporate in the District of Columbia, under the laws of the United States Congress, "The Bookbuyers' Protective Association," to be maintained at the National Capital, Washington, D. C., that it may be in touch with the copyright and patent files, as well as the Congressional Library, which offers splendid assistance to the organization, and to employ a thoroughly competent secretary (under bond) in the management.

The object of this association will be, not to discriminate for or against any publisher or publication, but to furnish a complete list of book publications generally not known and not listed in the regular channels, books that usually are classed as subscription books; to list such books in alphabetical order, both as to publishers and publications, setting out in detail claims made by publishers and by agents as regards De Luxe, Limited Editions, new or old type, binding, etc., and giving net prices of each; and to designate in each case, when possible, what claims are true and what are false, as well as to give the divers methods and schemes usually employed to influence the purchaser; in fact, to investigate and expose all forms of misrepresentations and frauds in the bookselling business, and to furnish each member with such data and information neatly bound in book form, which will be revised or corrected at least once each year; and to afford every member the privilege of writing the secretary for special information when needed.

THE OLSCHKI-PASOLINI DANTE COLLECTION.

THE Dante library recently purchased by Leo S. Olschki and combined with his own important collection, has been purchased by Prince Pier Desiderio Pasolini and his wife, who will present the collection to their native city, Ravenna, where Dante lies buried. It was proposed some time ago by the citizens of Ravenna to erect a memorial to Dante, and a considerable sum of money was contributed by Italians and others for this purpose. It is now urged that this money be used in erecting a library building on ground to be set apart by the city of Ravenna, to house the Olschki-Pasolini collection and such other donations of Dante literature as may be offered in the future.

The collection contains every edition and translation, (even in Hebrew,) of the "Divine Comedy," as well as of the minor works of Dante. The first edition in this library is that printed by Vindelin von Speyer at Venice in 1477, in excellent condition, containing the biography of Dante written by Boccaccio, which rarely is seen. The earliest translation is the Spanish one made by Villegas Burgos in 1515, which is also exceedingly scarce.

DEFINITION OF "SUPPLEMENTS" TO NEWSPAPERS, ETC.

POST OFFICE, NEW YORK,

MAY 25, 1905.

To Publishers: In connection with the circular of this office of April 15, 1903, in which publishers were notified that on and after September 1, 1905, second-class publications "with which are enclosed any alleged supplements not permissible under the law and the rulings of the Post Office Department to be mailed with second-class matter, will not be accepted for mailing at the second-class rates of postage," your attention is directed to the extract from an order of the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, dated May 18, 1905, on this subject, printed below.

Publishers now using or contemplating the use of supplements are advised to carefully consider their admissibility under the law and to ascertain whether such enclosures will affect the mailability of their publications as second-class matter, as it is obvious that many enclosures now mailed with publications as supplements will not be permissible under the law as it is to be administered after September 1 next.

SUPPLEMENTS TO NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS—GENERAL DEFINITION OF.

OFFICE OF THIRD ASS'T P. M. GENERAL,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18, 1905.

To all Postmasters:

A general interpretation which will cover every case that may arise can not be given in advance, but for the benefit of postmasters and such publishers as are concerned, the meaning and effect of the law may be stated in general terms. It is, however, manifest that there may be many individual cases which will not clearly fall within any general statement. Each case must, therefore, be decided on its own merits as shown by the particular facts in evidence.

It is, of course, understood that under the law the inclosure of matter of a higher class with matter of a lower class subjects the whole to the higher rate, and this law applies when an alleged supplement is not a supplement, but really matter of another class.

The following is the statute in relation to supplements:

"Publishers of matter of the second class may, without subjecting it to extra postage, fold within their regular issues a supplement; but in all cases the added matter must be germane to the publication which it supplements, that is to say, matter supplied in order to complete that to which it is added or supplemented, but omitted from the regular issue for want of space, time, or greater convenience, which supplement must in every case be issued with the publication." (Sec. 457, P. L. & R.)

In all cases where application is made for information postmasters may state that the above law, which will be administered after Sept. 1, next, according to its plain intent, provides that a supplement, to be mailable with a newspaper or periodical at the second-class rates must, as the word indicates, be in truth a "supplement;" as such, it must be "germane" to the publication; and it must be "matter supplied in order to complete" that to which it is alleged to be a supplement. It must appear in point of fact that the publication itself is incomplete without its supplement; it must also appear in point of fact that the function of the supplement is subsidiary and not independent or complete in itself; in other words, that it requires both to make a complete copy of that issue. By way of illustration: A newspaper having an article in relation to the Philippine Islands might properly have as a supplement a map of those islands; or, having an article relating to a person or place, might have as a supplement a picture of that person or place; but a map of the Philippines, or a picture of a person or place, inclosed as a gift to the subscriber and not performing the real function of a supplement, is an extraneous thing and not mailable at second-class rates.

It is not sufficient for an alleged supplement to be given a notice in the main publication as a sort of hook upon which to hang something which is not a supplement in fact and which really has an independent purpose and function. That is to say, a merely colorable reference will not suffice; the connection must be real, not fictitious. In every case it must appear from the publication and the supplement taken together that they form one integral whole.

If a publisher desires to give or sell to the purchasers of his publication some extraneous thing, like a calendar, cut-out picture, lithograph, pamphlet, etc., he is not prevented from doing so; but upon such things when sent in the mails he must, like every other citizen, pay the legal rate of postage. He may not make his publication, itself transmissible at the second-class rates, the vehicle for the distribution of things properly chargeable at a higher rate to the detriment of the Government revenues. The postal laws must be properly administered and it is expected that good faith will be observed by publishers.

Where there is doubt in any case as to the legality of an inclosure purporting to be a supplement, postmasters are authorized to accept the publication—inclosure and all—under a deposit in money at the third or fourth class rate (as may be the lawful rate on the inclosure itself if it were mailed alone), and submit the question to the Department. Should the decision be favorable to the publisher the excess over the second-class rates will be refunded; should it be unfavorable the money on deposit will be covered into the postal revenue by the usual method of converting the amount into postage stamps, canceling and sending them to the Department.

Postmasters must not regard these instructions as to supplements as effecting the constituent "sections" or "parts" of a publication issued in sections or parts. If there be any abuse in this latter regard it will be treated separately.

EDWIN C. MADDEN,
Third Assistant Postmaster-General.
Bull. 7687.

PAPER TRUST MUST ANSWER QUESTIONS.

ACCORDING to a decision handed down in Milwaukee, Wis., on June 17, by United States Circuit Judge Seaman against the General Paper Company, corporations must submit their books in open court and officers of corporations must answer relevant questions, when such corporations are sued by the government, under the anti-trust law, on the charge of operating in restraint of interstate commerce.

The General Paper Company, sued by the United States to determine whether it was a trust in restraint of trade, contended that most of the questions asked its officers before a master in chancery by Federal attorneys were irrelevant and refused to submit the company's books. Judge Seaman ruled that the company must show its books to supply possible evidence for the prosecution, and must answer certain questions put by the Federal attorneys.

Attorney James D. Flanders, for the paper company, says the case will be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Pending an appeal, the company intends to continue its refusal to answer.

The government's contentions were all sustained except that it is held that the books which are to be produced under the court's order shall not pass out of the possession of the defendant, save in case of pressing need. The decision, if upheld by the higher courts, will have an important bearing on future fights against trusts.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MRS. ELISABETH BALDWIN ANDERSON, wife of Dr. John J. Anderson, the writer of school histories, died June 17, at her home, 343 Adelphi Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. She was born at Caldwell, Lake George, seventy-seven years ago, and was married to Dr. Anderson at Glens Falls in 1849. The couple moved to Brooklyn, and for twenty years Dr. Anderson was a principal in the public schools of Manhattan. He retired from this work to devote himself to literary pursuits. Dr. Anderson's histories have been studied by the children of two generations. Mrs. Anderson assisted her husband in the preparation of most of his works. He is now eighty-four years old and blind.

BALDUIN MÖLLHAUSEN, a well-known German traveller and novelist, died in Berlin, May 28, aged eighty, having been born at Bonn, January 27, 1825. In 1849 he came to this country in the company of Duke Paul Wilhelm of Würtemberg to explore the Rocky Mountains. The tour in this country was abandoned on account of the weather, but Möllhausen was not to be deterred. For some years he lived with a tribe of Omaha Indians, by whom he was adopted. He accompanied two of the exploring expeditions undertaken by the Smithsonian Institution, and returned to Germany in 1860 to become custodian of the libraries of the royal palaces at and near Potsdam. He wrote upwards of fifty stories, chiefly dealing with backwoods life in this country. He also wrote a book of his travels through the Rocky Mountains and down the Mississippi.

WILLIAM CHARLES HARRIS, an authority on fish and fishing, died May 18 in Bellevue Hospital, New York. Mr. Harris was born in Baltimore, Md., May 30, 1830. He served in the war between the States, was taken prisoner at Ball's Bluff, in 1861, and confined in Libby Prison, Richmond, for seven months, when he was released on parole. He was editor and publisher of Afield and Afloat from 1876 to 1880, when he became publisher of Nature's Realm, which was discontinued in 1889. He then published the American Angler, and within the past few years edited the Fishing Gazette, which was recently discontinued. He was the author and publisher of "The Fishes of North America." To gather material for this book he made an extended camping tour of North America. He was accompanied by an artist, who made oil paintings of the fish as Mr. Harris caught them. These pictures were an exhibit at the first Sportsmen's Show in New York City. He also published "The Trouts of America," "Game Fishes of the West," "Game Fish of the Atlantic Coast," and "Sportsmen's Guide," and "Prison Life in the Old Tobacco Warehouse, Richmond, Va., 1861."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

H. RIDER HAGGARD, who, as Commissioner of the Colonial Office, has recently investigated the agricultural and industrial land settlements organized in the United States by the Salvation Army, has issued his report as a Parliamentary Bluebook. The report speaks in the most favorable terms of the settlements, and says that similar settlements might be successfully established in the colonies as a means of providing for the surplus agricultural population of the United Kingdom. Canada, according to a letter received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier, is prepared to set aside 240,000 acres for this purpose.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

ANNE WARNER (Mrs. Charles Ellis French), the author of "Susan Clegg and Her Friend Mrs. Lathrop," has written a story for the July issue of the Holiday Magazine for Children. The pathos of "Her Father's Boatman" is as fine as "Mrs. Clegg's" humor, and will be enjoyed by the grown-up reader as well as by the child. This issue has also a very interesting account of the only holiday observed throughout the world to celebrate an act of children—the German festival, "The Feast of Cherries"—in commemoration of the heroic action of the children of Naumberg, during the Hussite War. This festival corresponds in interest to our Fourth of July, inasmuch as it is considered the "children's" day. Following the lead of some of the other high class magazines, the Holiday Magazine will shortly advance its yearly price from fifty cents to one dollar.

ALBERT BRANDT, of Trenton, N. J., who is making an excellent magazine of The Arena, has issued a circular that deserves the attention of the trade, from which we quote the following: "It is now over a year since I purchased The Arena and placed Mr. B. O. Flower once more in full editorial charge. If you are not now handling this magazine I think you would be wise in placing an order with your news company for a small supply at once. I will mention some of the reasons why you should handle it: It gives a profit of seven cents on every copy sold. The unsold copies are fully returnable in sixty days through the American News Company, or any of its branches. We do not offer any premiums whatsoever to procure subscriptions, as the price is strictly net—no discounts to anybody. We do not club with anybody. Any newsdealer can make a commission of fifty cents on every yearly subscription sent in (this price being allowed to all agents alike)."

BARGAINS ONLY.

THE book counters of the department stores would seem to be a menace to the legitimate book dealers. But, after all, they do not do much harm. According to the Canadian Bookseller, the majority of the people who buy a cheap book at the bargain counter do so because they can get one for a few cents. Otherwise they would not buy a book at all."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES

A CATALOGUE of interest and value to the dealer in old books and to the librarian is the new edition of Eduard Grisebach's "Welt-litteratur-katalog, mit litterarischen und bibliographischen anmerkungen, recently published by B. Behr of Berlin. Grisebach was connected with the German consular service from 1872 to 1889, having been stationed at Constantinople, Smyrna, Bucharest, Petersburg, Milan and Port au Prince. Since 1889 he has devoted his leisure time to editing the letters of Lichtenberg, in preparing the "Edita and Inedita Schopenhaueriana," a bibliographic work of considerable importance; in editing Schopenhauer's complete works for Reclam, etc. His catalogue contains critical descriptions of 2507 items. LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, will publish shortly an important work on the royal seals of Scotland, by Dr. Walter de Gray Birch, of the British Museum. It is the first volume of a comprehensive "History of Scottish Seals," from the eleventh to the seventeenth century.

H. M. CALDWELL & Co., Boston, will publish in the Fall, in an attractive edition de luxe, James Clarence Harvey's "In Bohemia." The greater part of the book is prose, but it contains some gay verses, including the remarkable true story of the separation of Adam and Eve.

GEBBIE & Co., Philadelphia, have recently published, in an English translation, a handsome edition, in four octavo volumes, of "The Confessions of Jean Jacques Rousseau," with a preface by Jules Claretie. The edition is printed in large type on excellent paper, with vignettes, tail-pieces and full-page illustrations, in photogravure, by Maurice Leloir.

E. P. DUTTON & Co.'s imprint appears on "Little Flowers of St. Francis," James Rhoades' rendering in English of the famous "Fioretti." It is said that Mr. Rhoades was inspired for his task by days of wandering among the Umbrian hills. "First aid" to poets will be found in Andrew Loring's "The Rhymer's Lexicon," a rhyming dictionary on a new plan, duly introduced by Professor George Saintsbury.

G. SCHIRMER, New York, has just brought out a collection of "Fifteen Mother Goose Melodies," by Elizabeth Coolidge; also, "Eighty-one German Folk- and Popular Songs," collected and edited by Max Spicker, and excellently translated into English by Henry Grafton Chapman. The songs are prefaced with a comprehensive and informing note on German songs by H. E. Krehbiel.

IN a recent issue of the WEEKLY, by some inadvertence, we announced that H. M. Caldwell & Co. were about to issue "In Bohemia," a collection of verses by various hands. We now learn that the book is entirely the work of James Clarence Harvey, author of "Lives and Rhymes," "A Roman Legend," etc., and, furthermore, that it will be illustrated by Meyer, Outcault and Mucha, the great poster artist, and will be published in the near future.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have just published "The First Book in Physics," designed for grammar school pupils as a preparation for high school study, according to the theory of its author, Professor J. A. Culler, who believes that too much work is crowded into the present high school course. Burton E. Stevenson's "At Odds With the Regent," is now ready in a new and cheaper edition in response to a steady demand for this popular tale of adventure.

WILLIAM R. JENKINS, New York, have just put into their Common-Sense Series "Japanese in Daily Use," by E. P. Prentys, assisted by Kametaro Sasamoto, a little book giving a collection of the most necessary words and sentences for the use of the wanderer in Japan and also the coinage of that country, with its American and British equivalent. He has also just ready "Choses de France," lessons in conversation on French subjects by C. Fontaine; and "Historiettes et Poesies," selected for children by Marie M. Robique.

THE VIR PUBLISHING Co., of Philadelphia, have just divided $500 in gold among ten persons in the United States and one in England for the name "Husband, Wife and Home," the title of Dr. Charles Frederic Goss's new book. This title was adjudged best suited to the contents of the book, which will go far towards solving the questions of family life. This house also has ready "The Daughter's Danger," by Dr. Emma F. A. Drake, designed to point out the hidden perils surrounding the life of every young woman and to indicate the way of escape.

BRENTANO'S have just ready an opportune work, "Russia in Revolution," by G. H. Perris, an account of the causes, character and progress of the Russian revolutionary movement. Mr. Perris makes a searching analysis of the causes of the present unrest of the masses of the Russian people and a scathing arraignment of the government. Whether or not the author's statements and deductions are true, he brings to their support a brilliant array of facts on apparently first-hand authorities. The book will contain a photographure portrait of Stepniak, and other illustrations.

BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY are still scoring success with David Graham Phillips's "The Plum Tree," in which the "graft" of political schemes is so startlingly revealed. They have had telling words of appreciation of the truth of the story from Grover Cleveland, Chauncey M. Depew, Governor Herrick of Ohio, Governor Peabody of Colorado, Governor La Follette of Wisconsin, Bourke Cochran, General Nelson A. Miles and many other Senators and men of prominent political position. Another book steadily growing in appreciation of readers is Geraldine Bonner's "The Pioneer," a mining story of Nevada and California in the early seventies, showing the social unrest of those active days of progress.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Akron, O., has just issued a new story by Francis Edward Grainger, who writes under the pseudonym of "Headon Hill." It is called "Millions of Mischief." The plot is daring and the development plausible. Dishonest, disloyal and desperate Cabinet ministers, to avoid detection and disgrace for their own underhand dealings, decide to put the Prime Minister out of the way. They choose for their purpose a man condemned to death for the alleged murder of his mother and sister. He accepts the commission in the light of a brief reprieve, trusting that Providence may furnish some means of escape. How he works out his salvation and discloses the infamous plot is cleverly told.

GINN & Co. are publishing "Studies in Modern German Literature," by Otto Heller, Professor of the German Language and Literature in Washington University. One by one the prominent figures of German modernism are discussed; Hauptmann and Sudermann being accorded extensive treatment, with special attention given to the woman writers of the 19th century. "The Principles of Argumentation," published nine years since, has been amplified, brought up to date and thoroughly revised by its author, Professor George P. Baker, with the assistance of Professor H. B. Huntington, and is now ready in a new edition. A third edition of Veranus A. Moore's "Laboratory Directions for Beginners in Bacteriology," revised according to the latest advice, is also offered.

B. H. BLACKWELL, Oxford, Eng., has published a reprint of "An Account of Virginia, its Situation, Temperature, Production, Inhabitants and their manner of planting and ordering Tobacco, etc.," Communicated by Mr. Thomas Glover, an ingenious Chirurgion in that Country." The tract is reprinted from the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society, June 20, 1676. The edition has been limited to 250 copies, and is printed from type contemporary with the tract, cast under the direction of Dr. John Fell, who was Bishop of Oxford in 1675, and was presented by him to the university. Mr. Blackwell has also just published an interesting little volume entitled "Byways in the Classics, including Alia," by Hugh E. P. Platt, containing proverbial and colloquial phrases, mottoes, modern application of the classics, etc.

DODD, MEAD & Co. are preparing for the autumn trade a new "Red-Kegger" novel, entitled "The Man from Red Keg," presenting the same scenes and many of the same characters as Mr. Thwing's first book. A notable work by Russell Sturgis designed for the art-loving public will be called "The Artists' Way of Work." It will describe in an untechnical style the methods by which the artist produces his work, and will be well illustrated. They will also publish in book form Professor Harry Thurston's Peck's series of articles now running in The Bookman, under the title "Twenty Years of the Republic;" and a new edition of the Rev. J. W. Dawson's "The House of Dreams." An attractive nature calendar, made up of quotations from the works of Hamilton Wright Mabie, is being made ready, with many illustrations from nature, colored by hand.

GEORGE S. ROBERTS, of Scotia, the author of "Old Schenectady," together with H. S. Robson, of the firm of Robson & Adee, of Schenectady, N. Y., who published the book, and Earl Weller have left for Saybrook, Conn., from which place they will take a trip up the Connecticut River to its source. Mr. Roberts is writing a book concerning the history and traditions of the Connecticut valley, which will be published by Robson & Adee, and the trip, which will last two weeks, is made for the purpose of putting the finishing touches to the data collected, and also for taking pictures of various places of interest and historic landmarks, with which to illustrate the volume. Mr. Weller is the photographer, and some hundred views will be taken. The journey will be made with wheels, trolley cars, canoes and steam cars if necessary. The book will be issued about the first of next September.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will issue this month "American Insects," by Professor Vernon L. Kellogg. Both the author and publishers have devoted unusual care to this book, and believe that it will probably be the most comprehensive, up-to-date, and elaborately illustrated book on its subject. It will cover the entire American insect world, including moths, butterflies, and beetles, to which groups special volumes are often devoted. After frequent revision and alteration, it has finally been made not only useful to the special student, but human, and entertaining to the average nature lover. They will issue at once "Schiller's Minor Poems" (in German). This volume will contain the author's best lyrics and ballads, with an introduction and notes in English, by Professor John S.

Nollen, which will be the tenth volume devoted to the works of this great German, published by this house; also, a low-priced, popular edition of Lucas's "Book of Verses for Children."

JOHN LANE has ready Captain A. I. R. Glasford's "Rifle and Romance in the Indian Jungle, Being the Record of Thirteen Years." The author, an officer in the Indian Army, presents a different aspect of Indian hunting adventure—that of the solitary hunter who studies the habits and characteristics of the creatures of the jungle while he silently pursues them. This record is copiously illustrated by photographs and sketches made by the author. They also are reissuing in their Crown Library "Jane Austen: Her Homes and Her Friends," by Constance Hill; and a volume of poems entitled "Love's Journey," by Ethel Clifford, who has been recently married. The latest volume from the Eragry Press is a collection of poems by Laurence Binyon, under the titles of the initial poem, "Dreams-Come-True." The frontispiece is designed and engraved by the author, while the other illustrations are designed by Lucien Pissarro and engraved by Esther Pissarro. The edition is limited to fifty copies for this country.

FUNK & WAGNALLS Co. have just ready the tenth volume of "The Jewish Encyclopædia." This vast undertaking is being rapidly brought to completion, and the editors and publishers expect to have the work finished in time for the solemn celebration by the Jews of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the first arrival at New Amsterdam of a group of Hebrew Pilgrim Fathers who came from Brazil. It is expected that this celebration will be observed next Thanksgiving Day, and it would be difficult to find a more appropriate literary work with which to signalize this auspicious occasion. Public interest in the volume just issued will undoubtedly centre around the history of the Jews in "Russia" and "Poland," which is treated comprehensively and objectively. In other respects the instalment before us is characteristic, for it reflects the history, religion, literature, customs and life of the Jews almost from the dawn of time until our own day. By the death of Dr. Meyer Kayserling, the eminent rabbi of Budapest, the encyclopædia loses one of its most valued contributors. Dr. Kayserling was pre-eminent in Judæo-Spanish and general Jewish history. Before his death he contributed the article "Spain" for volume xi., which is now in press. The house has also just issued "Broad-Cast," by Ernest Crosby, a pretty book composed of verses, pictures, messages and meditations, "seed thoughts sown broadcast to bear fruit in the harvest to be."

THE MACMILLAN Co. are issuing Arthur C. Benson's biography of "Edward Fitzgerald" in the English Men of Letters Series; "The Outlook to Nature," by Professor Liberty H. Bailey; "Outlines of Christian Apologetics," by Professor Hermann Schultz, translated by Alfred B. Nichols; and the first volume of Algernon Graves's "The Royal Academy of Arts." Herrick's "The Real World" is added to their Paper Novel Series, while a new series to be known as the Macmillan India Paper editions will be introduced by the publication of "Vanity Fair," "Pendennis," "Oliver Twist" and "The Pickwick Papers." This week the Macmillans are publishing "The Storm Centre," by Charles Egbert Craddock; "A History of the United States," by William C. Doub; "Wales: Painted by Robert Fowler, R. I., Described by Edward Thomas;" "Concrete-Steel: a Treatise on the Theory and Practice of Reinforced Concrete Construction," by W. Noble Twelvetrees, fully illustrated with diagrams and tables; "The Trade Policy of Great Britain and Her Colonies Since 1860," by Carl Johannes Fuchs, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Freiburg I.E., translated by Constance H. M. Archibald; and "The State and Agriculture in Hungary," by Dr. Ignatius Daranyi, translated by Andrew Gyorgy. The Macmillan Company are also to be the publishers in this country of "Black's Medical Dictionary," a volume of approximately the size of "The Statesman's Year-Book," but not so thick. It will be a fairly complete compendium of diseases and matters pertaining to medicine and surgery, presented in popular form and fully illustrated.

PICK-UPS.

THE London Academy asks, "Have our readers heard the story of the old lady who walked into a shop and asked to buy a 'circulating library?' Inquiry revealed that she wanted a revolving bookcase.

IN the last volume of his entertaining "Notes from a Diary," Sir Grant Duff tells a story of our dean among novelists which is good enough to be repeated. Some one wrote to Mr. Howells asking him for a list of the best hundred books. "I can't name them," replied the veteran; "I have not yet written a hundred!"

LIKED HIS LITTLE JOKE.—"There goes a man with a very interesting history," remarked the bookseller reminiscently, as he watched a picturesque-looking old bookworm leave the shop. "Indeed," put in a casual customer. "How do you know that his history is so interesting?" "I just sold it to him—'Macaulay's.'"—Publishers' Circular.

FROM AN AUTHOR'S DIARY.—April 1. Wrote book.

April 2. Book fell still-born from the press.

April 3. Had picture taken in cow-boy hat.

April 4. Picture printed in all the literary journals.

April 5. Received a dozen ill-spelled letters from love-sick women.

April 6. Letters published.

April 7. Book among the six best-sellers.—Life.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A Feast of Good Things

FOR the Fall season we are busily making ready a very tempting array of "Good Things" for the Booklover and Giftmaker.

First on our list, by reason of its exceptional merit, is Adelaide Hanscom's new Oriental Edition of the "Rubaiyat," with twenty-eight photogravure illustrations taken from life studies.

The great interest taken in this work by prominent artists and critics; the posing for character studies by such well-known men as George Sterling, Joaquin Miller and Charles Keeler, commands at once for this art volume an immediate and large audience.

THE lover of choice leather books will find much enjoyment in our new

Cheltenham Nuggets

Beautiful little books are these Cheltenham Nuggets daintily bound in limp lambskin and stamped in gold.

IN another month Mr. Edmund Vance Cooke will present to the public, through us, his new, delightfully illustrated, volume of child verse

Chronicles of the Little Tot

Mr. Cooke is unquestionably the best living writer of child verse. We make no exceptions, nor will you after you read his poems.

But perhaps you are already one of his admirers and have eagerly purchased the Saturday Evening Post when it contained one of his captivating poems.

ANOTHER volume of child verse, and a good one too, will be issued from our presses within six weeks. It is Robert Louis Stevenson's immortal issued at last in a suitable dress with exquisite colored drawings by Bessie Collins Pease. Miss Pease has a very lovable touch when drawing children. They are the children of the happy homes of England and America and not at all like the lifeless wooden figures too often, alas, seen in modern prints.

Child's Garden of Verses

The Centenary Edition of the works of Lord Beaconsfield will be issued by us this year in twelve volumes. This edition is essentially biographical and will be edited by Lucien Wolfe. It will contain introductory biographical material much of which is of great interest and entirely new. This material will be copyrighted and cannot be obtained in other editions.

TWO popular little volumes by the author of the "Don't Worry Nuggets." "Have Courage" and "Don't Fret" are certain to enjoy a very large sale. They make excellent gift books, speaking as they do words of cheer and helpfulness.

But here we are at the end of our space and we have hardly finished the first course of our "Feast of Good Things." More next week. By the way, better send for a catalog.

JUST OUT

THE AMERICAN CATALOG
1900-1905

¶ The American Catalogue, issued heretofore in quarto volumes, is this year succeeded by the new American Catalog in octavo size, covering five years, January 1, 1900, to January 1, 1905. It will be continued by a corresponding publication every five years hereafter.

¶ The new volume is a final cumulation of the titles given in the Publishers' Weekly system of record by author, title, subject and series entries. Under this system author entries are designated by full-face type, title entries by ordinary Roman lower-case, subject entries by small caps, and series entries by italics, so that the system has the advantages of the dictionary catalog with the advantages of distinctive author, title, subject, and series alphabets. Each entry gives author's name, title, date of publication, series name, size, price, and publisher. Thus the leading facts regarding the book are put immediately at the service of the seeker.

¶ This volume takes the place this year of the "Annual American Catalog" which will be resumed in 1906.

¶ If demand should justify, and not otherwise, it is proposed to complement this Five-year Catalog with a supplementary volume, giving the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of the Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i. e., into five alphabets. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, book-dealers, and others who want the full material of the Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape.

¶ Both volumes will be substantially bound in half morocco, similar to the old American Catalogue. The price is $10 for the two together, or $6 for either separately. Subscribers are requested to send in orders promptly, stating whether both volumes are desired or only the first.

¶ The first volume is now ready; the second volume, if demanded, will be published later in the year. The edition in both cases is limited to the indicated demand.

SPECIAL NOTICE

☞ Owing to the increase in size and cost, the price of Vol. I. will be advanced July 1 to $7.50 per copy; the set from $10. to $12.

AKRON, OHIO

"Prior to the publication of 'Monsieur Beaucaire' Mr. Tarkington had written novels that were sold by the tens of thousands and had established his popularity. But it was that delicately wrought novelette that established his title as a literary workman. Since then, he has written more successful novels, judged by the number of copies sold, and now he returns with another novelette, 'The Beautiful Lady,' which is as perfect in conception and as dainty, and at the same time as thorough in execution, as was 'Monsieur Beaucaire.'

"Through the story runs a vein of pathos, but always the parallel and more clearly defined vein of humor balances and gently restrains it. Humor, whose appeal at one time is direct and irresistible, at another is not subtle, but indirect and born of suggestion, and at still another is gentle with the thought of how easy it would be to make room for the pleading pathos."---New York Evening Post.
